

An open letter to all supporters of the PORT ADELAIDE FOOTBALL CLUB

Former Port player, coach and now ONE PAFC advocate Tim Ginever.

I loved being a Port Adelaide player. It wasn't just my club but my passion, my belief.

I tried to play in the spirit of heroes before me – Quinn, Williams, Cahill, Ebert, it was a dream come true.

As Port Adelaide players we weren't just playing in the moment, we were making history, and building on a foundation, a spirit, something built long before, we were helping to create the most successful club in the country.

But we were also playing for something else – the future. We had to win Premiership after Premiership to ensure the club got the AFL licence it deserved.....History will show we did it.

Even though I never carried on the dream in the AFL, I'm every bit as proud of the Power as I am the Magpies.

Why?

Because both teams share the same birthplace, the same heritage, the same history....the same passion.

Today we have a divided club and sadly a divided Port Adelaide Community.

How this happened is irrelevant. But what is relevant, very real, and very critical is how we deal with the NOW.....It's about our future.

It's vital we move from a club divided to a club united – re-unite and re-ignite our passion and make Port Adelaide the proud football club we love.

This is a crucial moment.....a moment that will show the strength of the Port and it's people.

Our history designed us, our future will define us.

We MUST declare in one voice, together.

We are one Port Adelaide Football Club.
